Nothing

Yes

Students should be explained the topics as per the requirements of the industry, rather than just explaining it.

Experts from industries should be invited frequently during the curriculum.

University should acquire New technologies like Cloud computing, Cyber security, AI ML, etc

Latest software languages like Web technologies(JavaScript) should be included.

Teaching should be very practical rather than theoretical.

Required Changes

Professional UG/PG

Yet Not

Curriculum should include more practical and industry based topics. It Should include practical workshops. Industry visits and industry based short term trainings should be covered during their course itself

On job training or internship can be included

As per the observation no need any changes.

Your suggestion for improvisation for market acceptability of our students.

15 responses

Yes

Students should be trained in a way that they should be capable to apply the course work they have been taught at company/ industrial level.

Various projects should be made by students. Communication skills need to improve. Keep students aware about what's happening in the industry.

Btech graduates get higher preference than BCA graduates

Students should practise solving industry level problems.

Give more practical knowledge

Syllabus national level

Need exposure to industrially important reactions and operation.

Very good

Practice experience is must

Need To Give Professional Training ..

Students Should do minimum 3-4 month internship in Industry covering realtime assignments

Aptitude development training

Students need a better understanding in terms of what an industry needs from a candidate. There is an interesting shift in hiring patterns in recent times. While earlier companies preferred to hire skilled employees, the trend has now shifted, and now the employers focus on hiring professionals with job-relevant skills as well as investing in upskilling their current employees.

ALUMNI FEEDBACK FORM (About Curriculum) DR. AMBEDKAR COLLEGE DEEKSHABHOOMI, NAGPUR

The curriculum is very theoretical. University should modify it completely to suit practical needs.

Nothing to any comments

Yes there is a need of curriculum redesigning to meet global requirements

Including job oriented practices

Must be compatible to job

Yes, like trending technologies should be include in training programs like python, go, ruby, cloud computing, ui ux etc.

Should at least provide internships opportunities

Nothing

NR

Just increase the standard of the studies.

Change your Office staff they are good for nothing. They don't want to perform their job. They just want to postpone things even when the students has emergency.

Contract drafting for example is a integral part of the law, students must be taught the same with a more deeper emphasis and not the way it is taught in legal language or drafting pleading and conveyancing. Changing conditions has brought myriad changes in contracts and newer types of contracts must be included in the curriculum.

Yes

Scope should be always open

Practical based training and real time experience can be added

No comments....

Yes I feel the curriculum should match up with the global requirements and job competencies.

NA

Every student should know the application of the knowledge he is getting

ALUMNI FEEDBACK FORM (About Curriculum) DR. AMBEDKAR COLLEGE DEEKSHABHOOMI, NAGPUR

The study of law is more seen through the prism of creating advocates. However more emphasis must be now laid over grooming students for general corporate roles the reason being when looking for job opportunities students are met with a situation where they are groomed with court etiquettes and court visits but know absolutely nothing that helps them secure a job in corporates. Thus basic introductions to corporate roles must be given now more than ever looking the changing trends, contract drafting (NDA's, technology contracts, negotiation training) such topics need to be included since those are far more monetising for candidates looking for jobs after graduating.

The curriculum should be more practical oriented and technical

Make it need based so that slow learner is addressed equally

It should be more application based

It must be Job oriented

Vast practical Knowledge is require in the subject

it is applicable for the career of students

According to global level.

There can be some extension in the existing syllabus.

Curriculum should be industry based

Subject specific Advanced laboratory skills and methods should be incorporated in the curriculum which are demanding by companies and govt institutes working in the subject area.

The syllabus must be updated as per new technology. Some out dated things should be removed. The syllabus should be well designed

Internship of students in companies or research institute should be included

Need more involvement of industrial and data scientist to teach the subject along with lecturer

No any changes

Teachers are not well prepared with online teaching. Firstly, some of the teachers use online materials like YouTube and other ready made videos available on internet to teach rather than giving their own efforts to teach, due to this students are not at all interested in class and that's the reason why class attendance is always low, I even don't tell my son to join now, as he has to do self study everything even after attending class. Secondly, there are more guest lectures than and mostly those which won't help students in any way and still students are forced to join these guest lectures staring at the screen, I personally sat with him once for a guest lecture to see what they are providing with that and I was deeply disappointed to see that the lecture was not at all worth giving time for, they are just taking lectures as a medium of promotion.

So it will be better if guest lecture will be selective, which will help students improve skill as
