Seniors & Junior s students of Dr. Ambedkar College DeekshaBhoomi, Nagpur joined hands for a ragging free campus. DACN strongly believes that, college is the centre of learning where minds are trained. Fresher's come to the college with an idea that it's a beautiful world where they will be welcomed and will be learning many good things. However, terrible things also may happen here. To have check on this we had organised different programmes under the banner of Anti Ragging Cell. Previous year buddy system was introduced in the college, where senior students acted as mentors for freshers. Continuing this tradition, this year also senior guided the fresher's on different legal provisions as well as they narrated through different stories, why these practices need to be banned.

At the same time some seniors volunteered to be mentors and interacted with freshers and shared their experiences.

It was really a very meaningful programme, which was completely organised and planned by the students for the students. The programme was conducted under the able guidance of Dr. Sandhya Kalamdhad, Co-ordinator of Anti-Ragging Cell. Vote of thanks was proposed by Dr. Sandhya Kalamdhad. Mrs. Dhanashree Borikar and Mrs. Preeti Singh along with volunteers from Department of Law and Department of English, Biotechnology and Chemistry, worked hard for the accomplishment of the programme.
