Visual arts such as drawing and colouring encouraged in the events, which allow kids to showcase their inherent abilities in sketching and illustration. Drawing is also about visual narrative, and art contests may be a great place for aspiring storytellers to master new skills. Competitions like this allow aspiring artists of all stripes to show off their talents while also exposing them to a variety of learning opportunities that they may not otherwise have. Competitions allow kids to put their innovative ideas to test in a risk-free environment.

This allows artists to learn and grow. This time may also be viewed as an investment in future success. Students can meet new individuals and create new acquaintances by participating in art competitions. Young individuals might create new ideas and widen their viewpoints by meeting others from diverse disciplines and geographical regions. Competitions can sometimes allow students to go to new countries and experience diverse cultures. All of this has the potential to change a student's life if they wish to work in an area that values fresh ideas and ways of thinking.

Students can acquire the correct mindset toward a profession as an artist by participating in drawing and colouring competitions. In the face of contests, it helps people to push themselves and step beyond their comfort zones. Students learn to enjoy the experience and move on to become better and stronger artists by thinking of art contests as more than simply about winning and losing. The key to success as an artist is constant learning and self-motivation, and these competitions help students develop these habits

A Drawing Competition is organized to

1. To bring out the creative expression, artistic skills of the students and also to gauge their awareness quotient,
2. The aim of this competition was not merely to see the creative aspect but also to trigger the thought process of the students and sensitize them towards these burning & serious issues such as violence against women.
3. Competitions of the sort increase the observational skills, response to thoughts, awareness and concern of the students towards global issues.

The children were asked to use their imaginations and draw whatever they wanted to. The children came up with things which they found beautiful or inspiring. Many drew from nature and many picked things and instances from their daily lives.

This competition kept the students engaged. It was organized to explore and encourage creativity in students and offer them a platform to showcase their skills.
