Competition inspires kids to do their best – not just good enough. When students compete, they learn more and more from each other, whether it is their failure or win. They will try to do more than is required every time they face someone. These abilities prepare children for future situations of all kinds. The ability to be competitive will give them an important edge. More importantly our goal is to motivate students so that they can find different ways to boost up their skills and be more creative along with this they also learn about their limitations and how to surpass them in mere amount of time. Writing encourages writers to widen their thoughts and emotions both internally and relationally. Not only do children have a chance to think about their own thoughts and feelings about a topic they may not have considered before, but to consider the larger world in a way they might not have before. In turn, essay contests can build self-esteem, since it gives you and others a chance give the child recognition and encouragement for a job well done! Plus, it provides a satisfying feeling of accomplishment to them.

An essay competition is whatever you make of it. This low commitment threshold makes it the perfect way to test out different fields. Sometimes, the sheer number of different paths to explore can feel overwhelming – it's easy to want to know everything about all of them.

Essay competitions provide a concrete timeline and scope for your exploration, which can be helpful if you sometimes struggle with time management. Each one forces you to dig a little deeper into one of your possible interests. It's much more immersive than just half-heartedly leafing through books and research papers.

One of the best reasons to do an essay competition is the sheer satisfaction of finishing a piece of high-quality written work. It's something you can be proud of – and for good reason. Not only does writing help to improve your communication skills, but it also helps teach you how to think. You will be able to consolidate your ideas much better if you use readings to shape an argument rather than just filing them away in the back of your head. Structuring your thoughts within word limits helps you frame subtle connections concisely.

Today, these skills are much more important than information recall or memorization. Writing practice also improves fluency and clarity – and that's never a bad thing. They enhance their thinking capabilities and creativity levels along with making them socially aware and open since the topics for all of these competitions are based on social issues such as women empowerment, gender discrimination, child labor, etc.

So, in order to enhance thinking capabilities and creativity levels Social Outreach Cell, Dr. Ambedkar College Deekshabhoomi, Nagpur had organized an Essay Competition for unprivileged kids in collaboration with Vardaan NGO with prize Distribution and Refreshments on 17-11-2022 at 2.30pm at Bhimodaya Buddha Vihar, Vishwakarma Nagar, Nagpur. The program started with a welcome address of Manjushree Wadhee, Coordinator of the Vardaan NGO. The kids of the center welcome all the members of Social outreach Cell with floral bouquet.

Ten kids participated in the essay competition and three of them secured first second and third prize. The topics for the essay competition were- Corona Virus, BabaSaheb Ambedkar che Jeevan Ani Sangharsh, and Aazadi ka Amrut Mahotsava. All the kids performed were well in the competition. Three prizes (Indoor Games) were given to the center for the kids. One of the kid was deprived of going to school due to unavailability of school uniform. So the cell also provided him with the uniform. The program ended with a formal vote of thanks by Mrs. Shweta Paranjape, Coordinator of the cell with refreshment distribution to the kids. Two girl Volunteers of the cell along with all the Members of the cell- Mrs. Shama Khan, Ms. Swati Chimurkar, Ms. Rohini Meshram, Mr. Pradip Hirapure were present in the program.
