A Guest Lecture on 'Theories in Literature and Better Study Practices' for ELt students was organized on January 17 2019. The Guest Speaker was Ms. Neha Sharma (Doctoral Research Student, Sweden and Alumnae of Department of English). She talked about the conventional and recent trends in literature. The present syllabi for Post Graduate studies in Literature offer a mixture of all trends and they can be of great significance for pursuing further academics. While some of the students can think of becoming an expert in a given field of literature, there are many areas including job prospects globally.

She also talked about how better and quickly some concepts in literature be learnt and co-related with other theories. She suggested a bunch of good habits and practices for all ELt students on notes-making and keeping updated to the recent happenings in language and literature. Translation studies and need of translators worldwide is flourishing these days and students of ELt have a better chance to place themselves for placement in a different work areas and culture.

Students shared a good amount of dialogue with the Speaker.

Dr. Mrs. Pallavi Chopde (Head, Department of English) welcomed the Guest Speaker and made introductory remarks. The programme was compered by Ms. Anita Tirpude while a formal vote of thanks was proposed by Ms. Priya Bahadure.

Faculty Members Dr. Shailesh Bahadure, Dr. Ms. Priti Singh, Mr. Manoj Andraskar were present for the programme. A large number of students from UG and PG (English) attended the Guest Lecture with great enthusiasm.
