Report

In order to educate the faculty members about channelizing innovation driven career development attitude amongst the students of graduate and undergraduate courses a faculty development program involving brain storming sessions was planned by the institutional innovation council (IIC) of our college. Faculty members from all the disciplines were made to participate in this program. The program began with formal inauguration done at the hands of Dr. Mrs. B. A. Mehere, Principal and President IIC of our college. The program agenda was explained to all the faculty members during the welcome address given by the Principal. The program was divided in to two sessions of one and a half hour duration each. The first session on “Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Internet of Things (IoT) for Gadgets of future” was conducted by Dr. Mrs. Harshala Pethe from the department of Computer Applications. The session involved a detailed introduction about our day to day requirements which are involving the intervention of AI enabled devices, concept of IoT devices and their applications and future of these technologies. Dr. Pethe gave the participants a comprehensive overview of the processes involved in the development of such programs and their utility in future. The session also involved some physical activities which form the basis for AI bots to learn the intricacies of human movements and then develop the program for broad scale applications. Dr. Pethe highlighted that students of today do need a training of computer programming so that they can fast pace their innovative ideas for understanding their market fits and quickly progress for prototyping. The session ended with feedback from the participants for improvements required for designing such programs in future.

The second session was conducted by the program coordinator and the Innovation ambassador of the college Dr. D. N. Begde. The session centered on the topic “Responsibilities of Faculty Mentor in Shaping Innovative Student Ideas”. Group tasks were given to the faculty members wherein each group consisted of teachers from diverse background. The tasks focused on student ideas about self employment and innovations for future businesses. One teacher representative from every group was to then present the gist of their group discussion and comment on how each faculty member can then add value to nurture or reject the student idea. Such activity based explanation appealed to every participant and several perspectives were brought to discussion owing to different backgrounds of faculty members in each group. Group leaders with out of the box thinking were also rewarded as a part of appreciation to their effort. Finally all the participants were asked to fill an online feedback form to voice in their opinion about the program. Overall 46 faculty members attended the program.
