Report on First Day of the workshop :Date: 22/03/2022

Entrepreneurship Development Cell and Institutional Innovation Council of Dr. Ambedkar College Deekshabhoomi, Nagpur organized a Three days' craft awareness program under MSS Scheme on the occasion of Azadika Amrut Mahotsav in association with Government of India, Ministry of Textiles, Office of the Development Commissioner (Handicrafts), Handicrafts Service Center, Nagpur from 22 March 2022 to 24 March 2022 in the Dadasaheb Kumbhare Hall, DACN from 10.30 am onwards. The objective of the program is to provide all students with continuous and sequential study in the visual arts which will simultaneously reveal the joy of aesthetic expression, the hard work of craftsmanship, and the necessity of art within the complete human experience.

It was the First day of the workshop. The President of the program was Dr. Sanjay Kavishwar, Dean, Faculty of Commerce and Management, RTMNU, Nagpur. Dr. Sudhir Fulzele, Secretary, Parampujya Dr. Babsaheb Ambedkar Smarak Samiti was the Guest of Honour. The program started with the lightening of lamps and garlanding the images of lords.

In her welcome address, Dr. Mrs. B. A. Mehere, Principal, mentioned that the crafts of India are diverse, rich in history, culture and religion. The craft of each state in India reflects the influence of different empires. Throughout centuries, crafts have been embedded as a culture and tradition within rural communities and such adventures programmes are the necessity of the time to showcase the hidden talent of the artisans. Later, in her address, she congratulated new entrepreneurs and wished them success for future endeavours.

The session was followed with the introductory note by Dr. Durga Puttewar, Assistant professor and Co-ordinator of the Program. In the beginning, she introduced how the ED cell of the college is involved with handicrafts and other handmade production businesses and what they do for the tribal to increase their earnings. In her statements, she was clearly emphasizing the motto 'Learn with Earn'. She further added that Indian handicrafts are demanded and appreciated worldwide for their beautiful designs and high-quality products but the Indian handicraft industry was one of the worst-hit during the pandemic and to reinstate it to its previous glory everyone should come up with new ideas and vision

Mr. Chandrashekhar Singh, Assistant Director, Handicraft Service Centre, Ministry of Textile, New Delhi started his remarks with the praise that

Dr. Ambedkar college has taken this initiative to promote the handicraft business on their level. He further provided information regarding various types of handmade products available in the market and how they are focused on the digital marketing of handmade products. As he stated the handicraft industry is the second largest employer after agriculture in India, which constitutes a significant part of the Indian economy from the tribal areas so he urges the youth of the county to showcase their hidden talent and be a part of this journey.

Rajni Shirke, Handmade Embroidery Designer, with her easeful and confident tone, mesmerized everyone with her skills in handmade embroidery. She is a professional trainer for Handmade embroidery work. In her address, she talked about her experience that, Embroidery has been around for centuries. Embroideries on apparel have their roots in the remote past when people used to create designs manually and took a long time to finish each design. Embroidery is a classic art form that people will always be interested in. she also stands with Earn and learns, However, things have changed for the better, and in this digital age, anyone can easily make use of technology to create stunning designs for personal or commercial use.

Dr. Sudhir Fulzele, Secretary, Param Pujya Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar, Smarak Samiti, Deeksha Bhoomi, Nagpur, in his discourse, shared his valuable inputs with students and artisans present in the programme. He said, 'when we talk about the Artisans, it is about indigenous skills ' it Is about the artisanal techniques that are learned through decades of tribal knowledge and passed down within families and communities. later, he highlighted the existing reality of handcrafted items which have a high demand in the local, national and international markets. Many artisans depend on resources from their nearby surroundings to create these items. The only thing you have to be worried about is the high competition in this industry. He also added further that, many artisans live in India's numerous little towns and villages and churn out masterpieces with their hands, but fail to find the visibility they deserve. It is now a necessity of condition that we must promote tribal arts by forming an Artisan society where poor and tribal artisans can come together and can directly connect with the world audience to get employment for better monetary returns.

In his presidential speech, Dr. Sanjay Kavishwar, Dean, faculty of Commerce and Management, RTMNU, Nagpur talked about how national education policy clearly expresses the importance of education and crafts in the modern education system. He added that NEP 2020 is possibly the first policy document that clearly states the importance of the interaction between education and crafts. for better knowledge, there is also a provision that outstanding local artists and craftsperson's will be hired as guest faculty to promote local music, art, languages, and handicraft to ensure that students are aware of the culture and local knowledge of their place of study. He further mentioned that everyone should come forward to change the mind-set of the people that Handicrafts are a mirror of the cultural identity of the ethnic people who make it. In recent scenario, it has a magnetic appeal as a career option for the young entrepreneurs.

Dr. Mrs. B. A. Mehere, Principal, and Coordinator of this programDr. D. H. Puttewar, Assistant Professor, Dr. Ambedkar College, Deekshabhoomi, Nagpur inaugurated the handicraft stalls. At the end of the session, videos on handicrafts were shown and various demonstrations were done by the artisans to know more about the art.
