REPORT

Activity of Social Outreach Cell of Dr. Ambedkar College Nagpur for the Kolitmara forest Tribes on 6th Nov. 2023.

The Social Outreach Cell of Dr. Ambedkar College Nagpur organized a shawl distribution program for the impoverished tribal families residing in the Kolitmara forest of Parseoni Taluka District, Nagpur (MS), India on the 6th of November, 2023.

It is now the moment for us to advocate for the 'payback to society' initiative in order to assist the underprivileged tribal and backward communities living in poverty. We firmly hold the belief that our current state is undeniably owed to the community we were born into, and this obligation must be repaid to society through a range of services provided to our fellow tribal members, as well as through selfless contributions of our time, skills, and resources. By doing so, we aim to instill in future generations an attitude of giving back to both society and the environment. Family members' smiles were visible when the shawls were distributed to the impoverished tribals who were shivering from the cold. The families expressed their gratitude to the Dr. Ambedkar College Nagpur social outreach cell for their efforts during these trying times, and they were happy that someone was thinking of them. To these families were given 23 Shawls in total.
