PayBack to Tribal Womens' at Bhamragad Dist. Gadchiroli (MS) India on 5-6th January 2025

“I measure the progress of a community by the degree of progress which women have achieved”- Bharatratna Babasaheb Dr.B.R. Ambedkar.

By empowering rural woman through education can thus enable them to live with dignity and self-reliance cutting across the barriers of customary biases and prejudices, social barrier of caste, class, gender, occupation and institutional barriers that prevent them from taking actions to improve their state both at the individual and collective level. Article 14 ensures equality before law. Article 15 prohibits any discrimination. Indian women are the beneficiaries of the constitutional rights. After these rights, position of women has legally strengthened but in practice even today, they are victims of exploitations and atrocities. Tribal society in the post-Independence era has been witness to unprecedented change, which has been most marked in respect of culture, modes of making a living and social. The major communities of tribals those reside in the Bhamragad region are Gond, Madia, Pardhan and Kolam. They have their own languages as “Gondi, Madiya”. Traditional tribal women’s collect fruits, edible roots, vegetables, tubers, red ants, ethnomedicine, veterinary medicine, firewood and manage household affairs. Some tribal womens look after harvesting, transplanting the agri-produce. In terms of health, education, decision making and political participation the tribal women are mostly found to be lagging behind their men counterparts.

The Social Outreach Cell of Dr. Ambedkar College Nagpur (SOC-DACN) team is committed to fostering a culture and customs of ancient tribes to bridging the educational gap and empowering future generations. We firmly hold the belief that our current state is undeniably owed to the community we were born into, and this obligation must be repaid to society through a range of services provided to our fellow tribal womens and girls student. By doing so, we aim to instill in future generations an attitude of payback to society and the nature.
